Cardano corporate engagement overview

February 2024

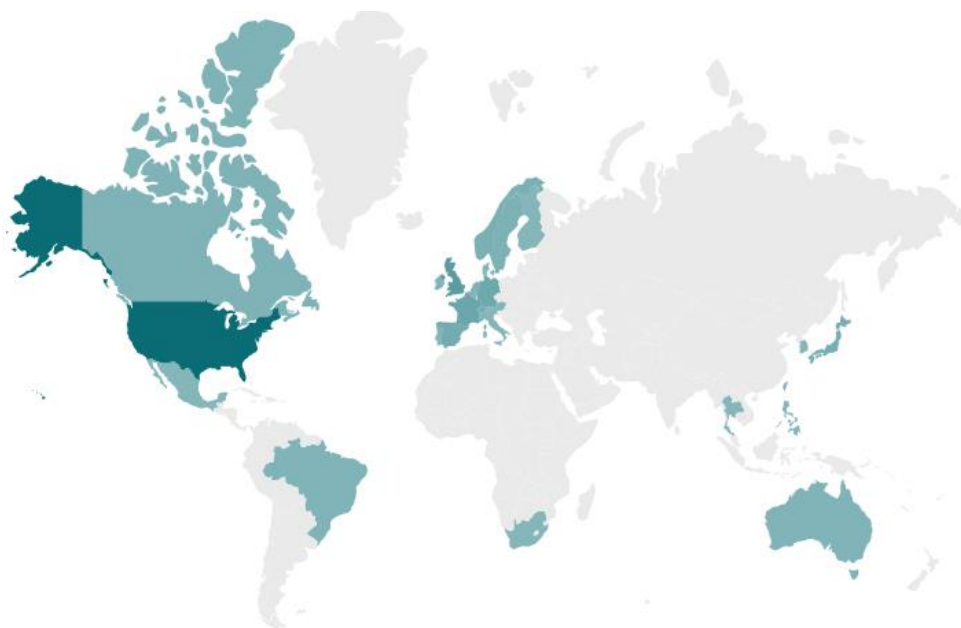

Overview

For our direct and indirect investments, we undertake stewardship activities (also known as active ownership), engaging the companies we own, and for our equity investments voting at shareholder Annual General Meetings (AGMs), as well as engaging our third-party managers and counterparties. On an ongoing basis, Cardano conducts active and passive engagements with investees to encourage progress on addressing company level and systemic sustainability risks and opportunities. We expect that companies are preparing themselves and contributing to the transition to a sustainable economy and society. Engagement means entering into a written, vocal or in person dialogue with representatives of the companies or other stakeholders.
